

Between Sundays

WEATHER: RAIN FOR A WHILE,
THEN YOU’LL SEE • PAGE 20

GOOD NEWS.
PRINTED.

SUNDAY EDITION

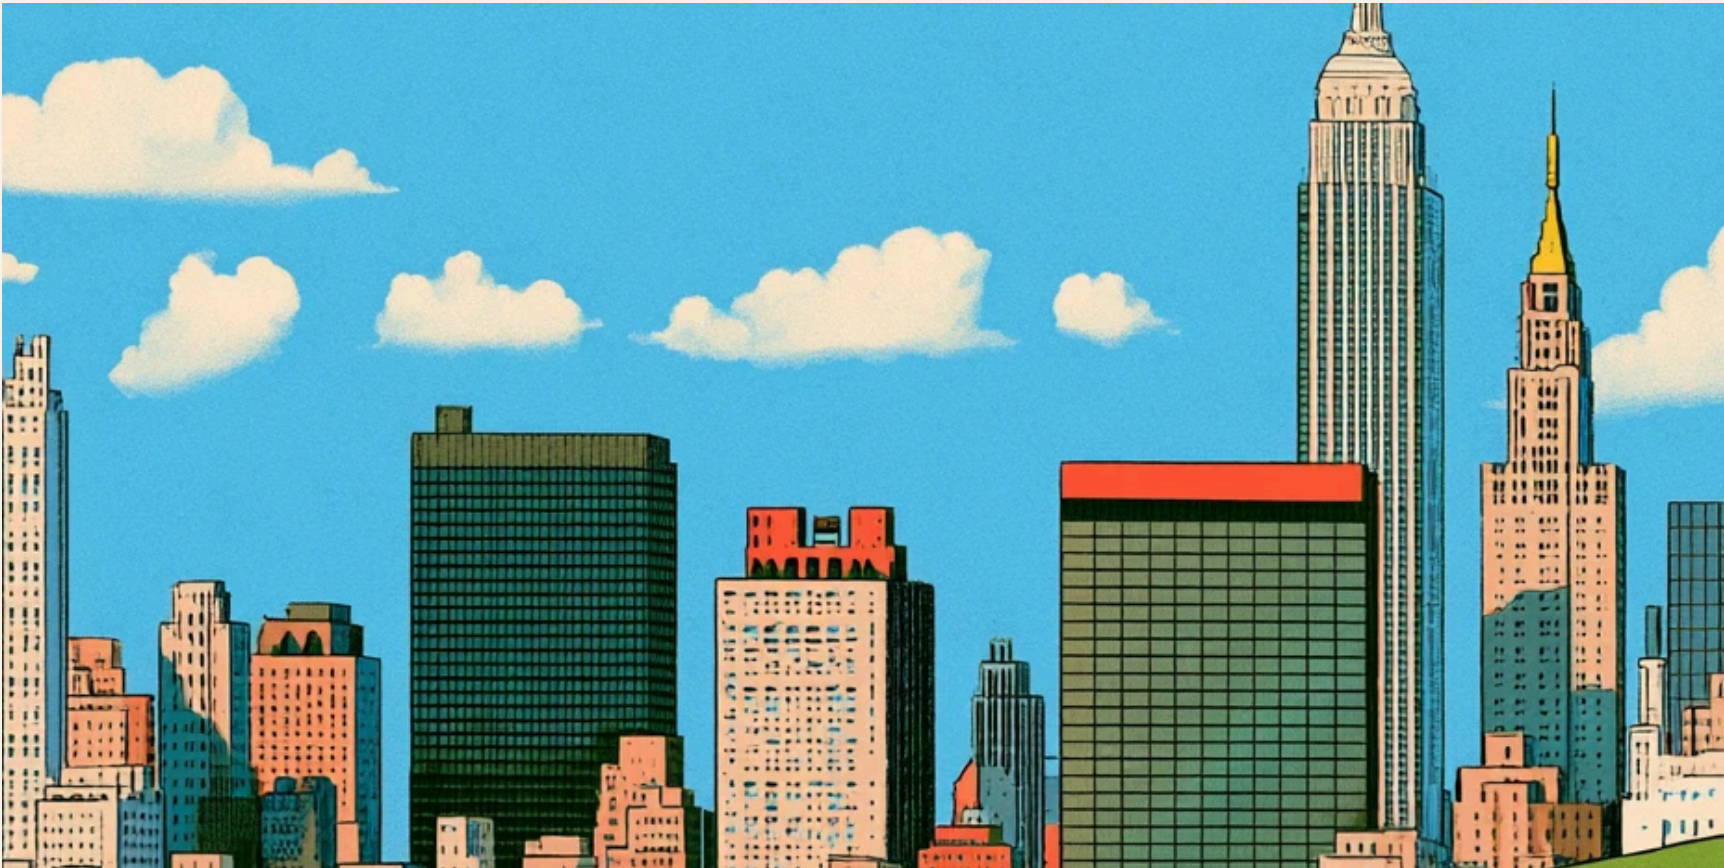

ISSUE 001 • “I AM WITH YOU”

PASS IT ON

THE GEOGRAPHY OF NOWHERE • A SPECIAL ISSUE

The middle of nowhere just got a new name.

A man on the run spent one night on open ground with a stone for a pillow. What he said when he woke up renamed the place — and started this newspaper.

Everybody on this hill came from somewhere else. Nobody is having the day you think they are.

Illustration: Between Sundays studio

A man left Beersheba in a hurry. He was not on vacation. His brother wanted him dead, and the fastest road out of town was the one he took.

Around sunset he reached a stretch of open ground between towns. The Bible does not give it a name. It just says a certain place — the kind of spot nobody stops in unless the sun quits on them first. He found a stone, put it under his head, and slept in the dirt.

What happened next is the reason this paper exists. He dreamed of a stairway set on the earth with its top reaching to heaven, and heard a promise that followed him for the rest of his life: I am with you, and will keep you, wherever you go.

He woke up afraid and said a strange thing for a man alone in a field: “Surely the Lord is in this place, and I was not aware of it.” Then he stood his pillow up on its end, poured oil on it, and gave the empty ground a new name: the house of God.

The place did not change overnight. His information did. CONTINUED ON PAGE 14 →

INSIDE TODAY
The Reading — Genesis 28, printed whole	07
Words & Meaning — seven words, looked up	16
Sports — nobody saw this one	19
Weather for the middle of a hard season	20
The Spine — four pages made to be torn out	23
Games — connect the dots, find the place	45

HOW TO READ THIS PAPER

Read it. Skim it. Tear out the middle. Leave it somewhere on purpose. Play the games. Come back next Sunday.